

Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Statement

SLAS is strongly committed to equality and diversity and especially welcomes participation in our scholarly community from women, Indigenous persons/ethnic minorities, racialised persons/visible minorities, persons with disabilities, persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, persons who are mature students or first generation university students, as well as from all persons with the skills and knowledge to contribute to the further diversification of ideas and productively engage with diverse communities in the field of Latin American Studies.